ISSUE AT-A-GLANCE

Goal of the briefing: To determine if this issue is ready for the City Council to forward this item for a public hearing.

Mayor Ralph Becker's Administration has forwarded proposed amendments that would allow Transportation Network Companies such as Uber and Lyft to operate in Salt Lake City either through licensing and regulating individual drivers or the Transportation Network Companies.

If adopted, the drivers or the companies would be subject to all ordinances regulating ground transportation in the City.

One unknown is how the proposed amendments would affect the ground transportation market.

POLICY QUESTIONS

1. This report will reference "Transportation Network Companies" and use the acronym "TNCs" on occasion. The term has been defined by the California Public Utilities Commission and the Colorado Legislature in its regulation of companies such as Uber and Lyft. The companies have developed software to match drivers who have signed contracts with them with people who access the software to obtain rides to locations. In effect, the process is using an electronic digital application to hail a driver. It might be noted that the legal counsel for Yellow Cab Utah and Ute Cab of Salt Lake City said in a recent interview that Ute Cab has developed a similar electronic application and Yellow Cab Utah was developing one.¹

2. Where do drivers for Uber and Lyft currently provide service in Salt Lake City?
3. If the taxicab companies awarded contracts in October 2011 to operate in Salt Lake City start operating, and companies such as Uber and Lyft plus the existing taxicab companies continue to operate as ground transportation businesses, what effect will that have on the taxicab/ground transportation market?
4. Does Uber's obtaining a $1.5 million liability insurance policy supersede its insurance requirements with individual drivers? Has the new policy become the primary policy, and does it name Salt Lake City as an additional insured party?
5. Does Lyft already require its drivers to obtain a commercial insurance policy to use Lyft's electronic application?
6. The proposed amendments contemplate eliminating the 30-minute requirement for pre-arranged service and a $30 minimum charge for limousine service. Eliminating the $30 minimum was suggested by an Uber representative because the representative indicated that Uber Black, a limousine service, could provide rides for less than $30.² The intent of the $30 minimum fee was to differentiate between taxicab service and limousine service. For its Uber Black service, Uber works with existing companies that are full-time ground transportation companies commercially licensed by the City.³ If Uber already is working with area limousine companies subject to the $30 minimum fee when they pick up fares, and the fee has worked to date, why should it be eliminated?
7. Should the proposed amendments include establishing a minimum fare that drivers for Transportation Network Companies would charge so that the drivers could be certain of meeting expenses, and the City could avoid market alterations through artificially low fares?
8. The Administration already has presented the proposed amendments to the Transportation Advisory Board and the Business Advisory Board, and the Business Advisory Board has sent a letter to the Mayor and City Council supporting the use of Transportation Network Companies.⁴ Are the Administration's presentations sufficient for the City Council to move forward with a public hearing, or would the City Council like to return the issue to the boards for further consideration? The City Council generally holds public hearings on issues affecting businesses in Salt Lake City.

ADDITIONAL & BACKGROUND INFORMATION

CURRENT SITUATION

Two companies -- Ace Taxi Service of Cleveland, Ohio, and Total Transit of Glendale, Arizona -- were awarded contracts in October 2011 to operate between 200 and 268 taxicabs in Salt Lake City. Two other taxicab companies -- Ute Cab and Yellow Cab Utah -- filed a lawsuit in Third District Court challenging the process by which Salt Lake City awarded contracts to Ace Taxi and Total Transit.

Neither Ace nor Total has begun operating in Salt Lake City because the lawsuit filed by Ute Cab and Yellow Cab has not yet reached a final legal decision. The contracts for Ace Taxi and Total Transit require them to serve all areas of Salt Lake City seven days a week, 24-hours a day. They also have to equip five percent of their fleets with taxicabs accessible for people with disabilities. The City Council sets the two companies' meter rates. The current contracts require the two companies to maintain car fleets no older than five years old.

The contracts were based on the City Council's adoption in November 2010 of ground transportation ordinances that established several regulations Mayor Ralph Becker's Administration proposes to amend. One item that will not be amended is the Executive Branch's authorization to solicit periodically proposals to operate taxicab services in Salt Lake City.

Earlier this year, representatives of Uber approached members of Mayor Becker's Administration, and City Council Chair Charlie Luke to discuss the potential for Uber to operate its Uber Black car service in Salt Lake City. In late spring Lyft started operating in the City without obtaining a business license, and Uber began operating its Uber X service in Salt Lake City, also without obtaining a business license. It should be noted that Uber plans to apply for a Salt Lake City business license the week of September 15.⁵

As of August 5, Salt Lake City ground transportation enforcement personnel have issued 154 citations to people operating as drivers for Uber and Lyft. Of the citations, 131 of them were warnings, and 23 were actual citations carrying a civil penalty.⁶ The reason for the citations is "a majority, if not all" drivers for the two companies are not registered or licensed by Salt Lake City to provide transportation for hire.⁷ Other civil violations included not obtaining a City vehicle registration, inspection, background check, and picking up passengers without a 30-minute pre-arrangement.⁸

It should be noted that the Department of Airports is the department Mayor Becker has designated to enforce City regulations involving the ground transportation industry, including taxicab companies. Some 252 ground transportation companies using roughly 1,400 vehicles fall under the City's ground transportation regulations.⁹ The staff is made up of a manager, two supervisors, and three inspectors. The department also contracts with a "secret shopper" service to enforce regulations.

PROPOSED ORDINANCE

The Administration's stated goal is to "ensure the safety of the public and the operational and logistical needs of the City, TNCs (such as Uber and Lyft), taxicabs, and other ground transportation providers, while providing "consumer choice" in an "evolving market."¹⁰

To meet the goal, the proposed amendments appear to seek a balance between the companies it has contracted with to provide taxicab service, Transportation Network Companies, and the other ground transportation companies that operate in Salt Lake City.

The way to do that, according to the Administration, is to register and license each person who drives for Uber and Lyft as an individual company. However, the proposed ordinance is structured to apply to Transportation Network Companies, if those companies obtain a business license and the appropriate insurance, and the drivers operate under that umbrella. Either way, every Transportation Network Company vehicle would have to pass a City inspection, and every driver would have to pass a City background check – all items required of every ground transportation business authorized to operate in Salt Lake City.¹¹

The proposed amendments appear to hinge on the definitions of "taxicab" and "authorized ground transportation business," and "ground transportation vehicle":

- The definition of "taxicab" in Chapter 5.71 reads: "A motor vehicle used in the on-demand, for hire transportation of passengers or baggage over public streets and not operated on a fixed route or upon a fixed schedule, but which is subject for contract for hire by persons desiring special trips from one point to another, as provided under Chapter 5.72 of this title, or its successor chapter and authorized to operate in Salt Lake City by contract with the department." The definition is the same, except or minor points involving the capacity of vehicles, in Chapters 5.72 and 16.60.

- The definition of “authorized ground transportation business” in Chapter 5.71 reads: “Any business operating any ground transportation vehicle, which has a current, valid business license as required by the City and which:
 - Registers the business in accordance with the requirements established by the department, and
 - Is current with all fees or charges imposed by the department and City.”
- The definition of “ground transportation vehicle” in Chapter 5.71 reads: “Any motor vehicle used for the transportation of persons using Salt Lake City streets for commercial purposes, regardless of whether a fee or fare is collected.”

It might be noted that the three definitions are little changed from current definitions in City ordinances. The words “authorized to operate in Salt Lake City by contract with the department” separate Ace Taxi and Total Transit from other ground transportation businesses because Ace and Total have signed contracts with the City. When they start operating Ace and Total will be the only taxicab companies authorized to work in Salt Lake City. As that, they can pick up passengers anywhere immediately, including being hailed from someone standing on the sidewalk.

They also have and will have the right – along with free courtesy vehicles and hotel vehicles – to pick up people at Salt Lake City International Airport on demand to take them to destinations inside Salt Lake City. Every other company licensed by the City, is an “authorized ground transportation business.”

Under the current ordinances, authorized ground transportation businesses can only pick up fares by having customers arrange rides thirty minutes in advance of being picked up. If they are limousine companies, people have to arrange a ride thirty minutes in advance and pay a $30 minimum fare. Proposed amendments would eliminate both requirements.

Coupled with eliminating the 30-minute pre-arrangement requirement and $30 minimum fee, a key proposed change to the ordinance is to simplify Section 5.71.060 to read, “All authorized ground transportation businesses may provide on-demand service, scheduled service, or prearranged service within the City, except as provided in Salt Lake City Code section 16.60.097.”

The proposed changes were initiated largely because Uber and Lyft representatives said their technology would not achieve its purpose if its drivers had to wait 30 minutes to pick up a fare. As for limousine service, it should be noted again that an Uber representative indicated its Uber Black service could provide limousine service for less than $30. But again, the original goal of the minimum $30 fare was to differentiate between limousine service and other ground transportation services, particularly taxicabs.

The proposed changes would, in effect, allow any of the 1,400 vehicles regulated by the ordinance plus driver fleets for Uber and Lyft, to pick up people in Salt Lake City on demand – except at the Salt Lake City International Airport for destinations within the City.

In an attempt to balance the advantage that would be given up by Ace Taxi and Total Transit under the proposed changes, the Administration has proposed four things.

First, the ordinance defines “taxi stand” as: “A public place along alongside the curb of a street, or elsewhere in the City, which has been designated by the Mayor or the Mayor’s designee, as reserved for the use of taxicabs available for hire by passengers, including places otherwise marked as freight zones or other parking restricted zones if designated for use of taxicabs during specified times.”

The effect of the change would be to make taxi stands exclusively for Ace Taxi or Total Transit cabs because – under the proposed ordinance – by virtue of their contracts with the City, they would be the only taxicabs recognized by the City. The Administration has indicated that it plans to work with the two companies to locate taxi stands where they would be most effective. The twenty three taxi stands in Salt Lake City currently designated as taxi stands fell into disuse years ago.

Second, the proposed revision of Section 5.71.060 included the words, “except as provided in Salt Lake City Code section 16.60.097.” That section reads in part, “Only ... taxicabs, courtesy vehicles, and hotel vehicles may provide on-demand service at the airport to points within Salt Lake City.” That means Ace Cab and Total Transit taxicabs would be the only fare-charging vehicles allowed to provide on-demand service from the airport to destinations in Salt Lake City. Transportation Network Company rides would have to be pre-arranged.

A key to the revision is “points within Salt Lake City.” Any ground transportation company can provide on-demand service to take people to locations outside Salt Lake City under the current ordinance, and that will not change. A fine point of the proposed change might be how long it will take for an airline passenger to pre-arrange a ride from a TNC driver when a plane lands in Salt Lake City.

Third, Section 5.72.165 would be revised to authorize the Mayor to determine the number of taxicab businesses awarded contracts after the City issues requests for proposals to provide taxicab service in Salt Lake City. Another revision would authorize the Mayor to determine the total number of taxicabs authorized to operate in the City. The current ordinance requires “at least two and not more than four taxicab businesses” be awarded contracts after a request for proposals. It also sets the total number of taxicabs to operate in Salt Lake City at between 200 and 268.

The figures for the total number of taxicabs authorized to operate in the City come from two places. The 200 total is the number of taxis Dr. Ray Mundy, Ph.D., estimated in his 2005 study that would allow taxi drivers to earn a living.¹² The 268 figure came from the number of cabs authorized the three Salt Lake City taxicab companies under certificates of public convenience and necessity.

Both revisions appear to anticipate a potential reduction in taxicab fleets.

Fourth, Section 5.72.405 would be revised to allow taxicab businesses to have a review of taxicab rates every three months. The current ordinance allows for a rate review every six months. It should be noted that the periodic rate review would start a process that would end with the City Council setting rates for taxicabs.

INSURANCE ISSUES

A major point in the proposed amendments involves commercial vehicle insurance. The current ordinance requires commercial ground transportation companies to carry a $1.5 million commercial liability insurance policy that names Salt Lake City as an insured party. Again, it should be noted that Uber representatives indicate Uber has obtained a $1.5 million insurance policy.

The Administration estimates that individual drivers registering as a business, getting a background check and registering a vehicle at the airport as a ground transportation vehicle would cost less than $250. The Administration estimates the cost of obtaining an individual $1.5 million commercial liability insurance policy that names Salt Lake City as an insured party at between $2,000 and $4,000 a year.¹³ That comports with a business owner who told Council staff his cost to insure a Toyota Prius as a commercial ground transportation vehicle was about $3,300 a year.

Requiring commercial insurance that names Salt Lake City as an insured party is standard practice in the City. The City requires vending carts, ice cream trucks, and mobile food trucks to obtain general liability insurance, although in lesser amounts than ground transportation businesses. The City is named as an insured party. According to the City Attorney's Office, the City does not contract for services provided by ground transportation companies, mobile food vendors, and similar businesses. However, the City's role as a regulator creates a liability exposure for Salt Lake City. In such situations, an additional insured endorsement to a general liability policy, which names Salt Lake City Corporation, can provide protection from liability exposure. An additional insured endorsement is intended to provide the City with insurance coverage in the event of related claims or lawsuits.¹⁴

Part of the issue involving insurance is the status of people who drive for companies such as Uber and Lyft. Both companies identify those who drive for them as independent contractors. Language from an agreement between people who drive for Uber and a company connected to Uber says:

You represent that you are an independent contractor engaged in the independent business of providing the transportation services described in this Agreement ...¹⁵

Except as specifically set forth in this Agreement, you are solely responsible for all costs and expenses incident to your personnel and equipment in performing services under this Agreement, including, but not limited to, costs of fuel, fuel taxes, wages, employment taxes, excise taxes, permits of all types, gross revenue taxes, road taxes, equipment use fees and taxes, licensing, insurance coverage and any other tax, fine or fee imposed or assessed against the equipment or you by any state, local, or federal authority as a result of an action by you or your employees, agents, or subcontractors in the performance of this Agreement.¹⁶

As an express condition of doing business with the Company, and at your sole expense, you agree to maintain current during the life of this Agreement, third-party automobile insurance of the types and amounts specified herein for every vehicle used to perform services under this Agreement.¹⁷

To perform services under this Agreement, you must maintain automobile insurance with coverage of at least the minimum coverage required by state or local law to operate a private passenger vehicle on public roads. You understand and acknowledge that your personal automobile insurance policy may not afford liability, comprehensive, collision, medical payments, personal injury protection, uninsured motorist, underinsured motorist, or other coverage for the P2P transportation service you provide pursuant to this Agreement. If you have any questions or concerns about the scope or applicability of your own insurance coverage, it is your responsibility, not the Company's, to resolve them with your insurer(s).¹⁸

The Company holds a commercial automobile insurance policy with $1 million of liability coverage per accident, as defined in the relevant policy. Subject to its specific terms and conditions, this policy is intended to cover your liability to third parties, on an excess basis, from the time you accept a Request via the Software until the completion of the requested trip. You understand and acknowledge that your own automobile insurance policy is primary and that the Company's policy is excess to your policy.¹⁹

By entering into this Agreement, you agree to defend, indemnify, protect and hold harmless the Company, its Licensors and each such party's parent organizations, subsidiaries, affiliates, officers, directors, members, employees, attorneys, and agents, from any and all claims, demands, damages, suits, losses, liabilities, expenses (including attorneys' fees and costs), and causes of action arising directly or indirectly from out of or In connection with (a) your actions (or omissions) arising from the performance of services under this Agreement, including personal injury or death to any person (including you and/or your employees) ...²⁰

This Agreement is between two co-equal, independent business enterprises that are separately owned and operated. The Parties intend this Agreement to create the relationship of principal and independent contractor and not that of employer and employee. The Parties are not employees, agents, joint venturers or partners of each other for any purpose. As an independent contractor, you recognize that you are not entitled to unemployment benefits.²¹

A Lyft representative also described Lyft drivers as independent contractors. However, based on information Lyft provided, its insurance program is different from Uber's. Lyft appears to require drivers to have personal liability when drivers have not accepted a ride request through Lyft's electronic application.

Lyft says it has four insurance policies that are in effect after a Lyft driver has accepted a ride request. According to Lyft, the four policies are: commercial automobile, contingent liability coverage, contingent comprehensive and collision coverage, and uninsured/underinsured motorist coverage.

When a driver is not driving with his or her electronic application on, the driver's personal insurance is the only policy that applies. When a driver turns on his or her electronic application, Lyft's contingent liability policy provides coverage if a driver's personal insurance does not. When a driver accepts a hail on his or her electronic application Lyft's liability coverage becomes primary to a driver's personal insurance and is designed to cover a driver's liability for property damage or bodily injury to passengers "and/or third parties." The policy appears to have a $50,000 maximum per person and $100,000 per accident plus a $25,000 maximum for physical damage. The uninsured motorist/underinsured motorist coverage covers claims for up to $1 million per incident, if the Lyft driver is not at fault.²²

INDEPENDENT CONTRACTORS

Like drivers for Uber X and Lyft, taxicab drivers in Salt Lake City are independent contractors. Independent contractors for taxicab companies are the taxi industry standard. In Salt Lake City, a series of orders by the U.S. Department of Labor and the Utah Industrial Commission between 1982 and 1997 made clear that taxicab drivers were not employees of taxicab companies.

One paragraph in an Acknowledgement, Waiver & Release form for a Salt Lake City taxicab company says:

I acknowledge my self-employed, independent contractor status with the Cab Company. Except as may be required by Salt Lake City ordinance or other statutory law, or which may be reasonably required for purposes of safety or to promote the Cab Company's good name and its reputation for the prompt and courteous service to the public, the Cab Company does not have the right to direct and control the manner or means of my performance. I can set my own working hours; I am not assigned any routes; I am not required to report or work in any particular location; I have the right to operate without the service of radio dispatch from the Cab Company; I am not paid any salary or wage from the Cab Company; I do not account to the Cab Company for any collections; I am responsible for my own expenses and taxes.

In Salt Lake City, many drivers for Yellow Cab Utah, Ute Cab and City Cab own their vehicles.²³ Although they are independent contractors, taxicab drivers use dispatch systems provided by the companies. The companies also provide the liability insurance required by the City, and the drivers pay for the insurance as part of their lease fees to operate under the companies.

Airport personnel indicate a few ground transportation companies operate only one vehicle as an owner-operator. Some ground transportation companies pay employees an hourly wage.

In sum, drivers for Transportation Network Companies are similar to many taxicab drivers and independent operators. A Lyft representative said most of drivers that use its equipment drive for 10 hours or less, but many TNC drivers operate full-time.

OTHER CITIES

Uber and Lyft have faced opposition wherever they have entered a market. A German court earlier this month issued a temporary injunction stopping Uber from operating in that country because German law prevents drivers without commercial licenses from charging more than the cost of making a journey. Because Uber takes a percentage of each ride, the court issued the injunction, according to CNN Money.²⁴ The injunction was made in connection with a lawsuit filed by Taxi Deutschland which operates its own car-booking application. Uber also is banned in Spain, and in Brussels, Belgium, among other places.

In the United States, Uber and Lyft have been ordered to stop operating in Virginia until they obtain the proper authority to do so, and Uber has been stopped from operating in New Orleans, Miami, and Portland.

In California, the Public Utilities Commission last September created a new business category called “transportation network companies” and enacted some regulations for businesses such as Uber and Lyft. The Commission proposed tougher insurance requirements than it originally proposed. The companies typically provided drivers with $1 million in insurance coverage, but that kicked in only after a passenger got in the car and applied only if the drivers' personal insurance policies didn't cover an accident. Then an Uber driver struck and killed a 6-year-old girl in San Francisco while on his way to pick up a passenger on New Year's Eve; because no passenger was in the car yet, Uber denied responsibility, according to a story in the San Jose Mercury news.²⁵

However, Uber and Lyft voiced support in late August for a California bill that will require ridesharing companies in California to insure drivers as soon as they log into a ridesharing app to pick up passengers. The bill requires ridesharing companies to provide $200,000 in coverage once a driver turns on their app — down significantly from the originally proposed \$750,000. The coverage is in addition to the required $1 million insurance policy that covers drivers from when they are matched with a passenger, all the way until the passenger gets out of the car at their destination.²⁶

The Seattle City Council adopted an ordinance that allows all for-hire companies to continue operating without a cap placed on the number of drivers on the road at any time. Previously, it had maintained a cap on the number of for-hire drivers, only allowing 150 active drivers on the road at any given time.

Other key terms of the deal included:

- Transportation network companies and their drivers will be licensed and required to meet specific insurance requirements.
- The city will work with the industry to clarify or change state insurance law to account for recent changes in the industry, similar to recent actions in Colorado.
- The city will provide 200 new taxi licenses over the next four years.
- Taxi and for-hire licenses will transition to a property right that is similar to a medallion in other cities.
- For-hire drivers will have hailing rights.
- An accessibility fund will be created through a $0.10 per ride surcharge for drivers and owners to offset higher trip and vehicle costs for riders who require accessibility services.²⁷

The most comprehensive regulations for Transportation Network Companies is a Colorado law signed by Gov. John Hickenlooper in June. Briefly, the law:

- Defines a TNC pre-arranged ride as a ride that starts when a driver accepts a requested ride through a digital network.
- Requires a Transportation Network Company to file with the state commission regulating motor carriers evidence that the company or the driver has secured primary liability insurance coverage for the driver for incidents involving the driver during a pre-arranged ride. The coverage must be at least $1 million per occurrence.
- Requires the Colorado Division of Insurance to conduct a study of whether insurance levels in the act “are appropriate for the risk involved with Transportation Network Services.”
- Limits a driver to working no more than twelve consecutive hours.
- Requires a Transportation Network Company to “conduct or have a certified mechanic conduct” a safety inspection of a prospective driver’s vehicle before it is approved for use as a TNC vehicle and continue periodic inspections of at least one a year.
- Authorizes the appropriate Colorado agency to conduct inspections of personal vehicles 90 days after the law goes into effect.
- Allows any taxicab or shuttle company to convert all or in part to a Transportation Network Company.
- Requires each personal vehicle providing transportation through a TNC to “display an exterior marking that identifies the personal vehicle as a vehicle for hire.”
- Requires potential drivers to obtain a criminal history record check through state agencies or through a “privately administered national criminal history record check, including the National Sex Offender Database.”
- Requires a Transportation Network Company to provide “services to the public in a nondiscriminatory manner, regardless of geographic location of the departure point or destination, once the driver and rider have been matched through the digital network.”

BUSINESS ADVISORY BOARD

TO: Mayor, City Council
FROM: SLC Business Advisory Board
DATE: September 3, 2014

Dear Mayor Becker & Salt Lake City Council Members:

The Business Advisory Board is set up to advise you, our Policy Makers, on issues affecting Salt Lake City's business community and help direct City economic policy, promote small business growth, support local entrepreneurship, and assist the City in remaining responsive to the business community.

We the members of the Business Advisory Board have recently been asked to weigh in on important business issues facing our city. We understand that you as policy makers must be sensitive to the needs of the community and its stakeholders, and hope that what we will say here regarding public policy governing peer-to-peer business models will be helpful.

Firstly, we want to convey our unanimous support for embracing peer-to-peer business models in our community.

Secondly, we ask the city to consider careful and thoughtful regulation of peer-to-peer businesses.

Lastly, we ask our city leaders to consider a more broad approach to dealing with the peer-to-peer business models in general. New ideas are coming more rapidly than any municipality could possibly be expected to regulate however we hope that Salt Lake City can become a place where new business ideas find a welcoming environment to flourish.

We appreciate and understand that there will be many voices in this discussion. As business leaders in your community, we understand that it's often risk that creates opportunity for growth, efficiency, and benefit to the community as a whole.

Sincerely,

Business Advisory Board Members

HOW DOES OUR INSURANCE POLICY WORK?

The subject of insurance can be a complicated one, but it's important you know how and when our policies cover you and your passengers in the event of an incident. The following is an overview of how our insurance policies work. There are four coverages included in our insurance policies (unless otherwise noted, these coverages are in effect from the time you accept a ride request until the time the ride has ended in the app.)

- Commercial Automobile
- Contingent Liability (coverage only while in driver mode waiting for a ride request)
- Contingent Comprehensive & Collision
- Uninsured/Underinsured Motorist (UM/UIM)

How does Lyft's liability coverage work?

Our liability insurance is designed to act as the primary coverage during the period from the time you accept a ride request until the time the ride has ended in the app. Note: If you have commercial insurance, Lyft's policy remains excess of your commercial insurance coverage. Here's how it works:

- DRIVER MODE OFF
Your personal insurance is your insurance policy.
- DRIVER MODE ON BUT NOT YET ACCEPTED A RIDE
Lyft provides Contingent Liability to protect you if your personal insurance doesn't.
- RIDE REQUEST ACCEPTED THROUGH THE END OF LYFT RIDE
Lyft's liability coverage is primary to your personal insurance. It's designed to cover your liability for property damage and bodily injury of passengers and/or third parties.

How does contingent liability coverage work?

Our contingent liability coverage is designed to provide coverage when the app is in driver mode before you've received a ride request in the event your personal insurance does not respond. The policy has a $50,000 maximum per person, $100,000 maximum per accident, and a $25,000 maximum for physical damage. There is no deductible under this policy.

How does contingent collision coverage work?

Our contingent collision coverage is designed to cover physical damage to your vehicle resulting from an accident as long as you have obtained collision coverage on your personal automobile policy. The policy has a $2,500 deductible and a $50,000 maximum for physical damage to your vehicle. Like any driver's personal auto policy, this policy is designed to step in regardless of whether or not you're at fault. This policy will respond if your personal auto policy declines the claim for collision damages to your vehicle solely because you are driving with Lyft.

How does contingent comprehensive coverage work?

Similar to our contingent collision coverage, our contingent comprehensive coverage is designed to cover physical damage to your vehicle resulting from a non-collision event (for example a fire, vandalism, a natural disaster, etc.) as long as you have obtained comprehensive coverage on your personal automobile policy. The policy has a $2,500 deductible and a $50,000 maximum for physical damage to your vehicle. Like any driver's personal auto policy, this policy is designed to step in regardless of whether or not you're at fault. This policy will respond if your personal auto policy declines the claim for comprehensive damages to your vehicle solely because you are driving with Lyft.

What does UM/UIM mean and how does this coverage work?

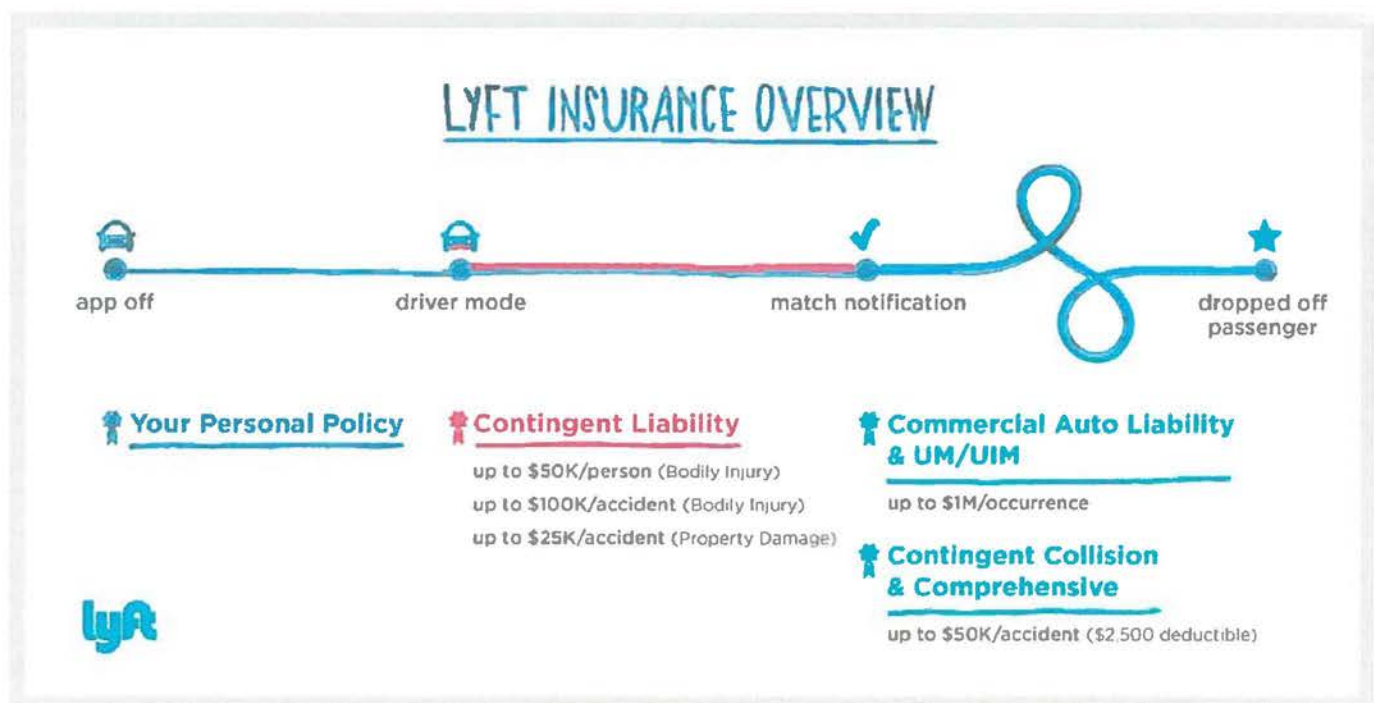

UM stands for uninsured motorist and UIM stands for underinsured motorist. In the event of an accident (once you have accepted a ride and are transporting a passenger) with a driver who is uninsured or underinsured and is ultimately at fault for bodily injury caused to you, your passengers, or third parties, our UM/UIM coverage will apply for up to $1M per incident. There is no deductible on UM/UIM claims.

When do these coverages apply?

It depends on the coverage. During the time the Lyft app is on and available to accept a request (also known as "Driver Mode"), the contingent liability policy is in effect. The other three coverages are in effect beginning when you've accepted a passenger ride request and are on your way to pick the passenger up. They continue while you're giving a ride to a passenger and until you end the ride in the app.

What states are covered by this policy?

Our policy is available in all states in the U.S., except New York State.

NOTE: This bill has been prepared for the signatures of the appropriate legislative officers and the Governor. To determine whether the Governor has signed the bill or taken other action on it, please consult the legislative status sheet, the legislative history, or the Session Laws.

BACKGROUND/DISCUSSION:

Peer-to-peer transportation providers, Lyft and UberX, (also called transportation network companies or “TNCs”) currently are operating in Salt Lake City. TNCs use an online-enabled platform, typically smart phone applications (“apps”), to connect passengers with drivers. The drivers may be using personal vehicles or commercial transportation vehicles, such as limousines. Most TNCs have a response time around 5-7 minutes. At the destination, the apps often calculate the fare automatically and charge it to the passenger’s credit card.

Lyft and Uber are operating alongside 245 transportation for hire companies or individuals that are registered and licensed to provide ground transportation services in Salt Lake City. Three of those companies are on-demand taxicab operators, which will continue to operate at least through July 13, 2014, under a temporary waiver that allows them to continue with their on-demand taxi services without a contract while the City works with Ace Taxi and Total Transit (“Contracted Taxicab Companies”) to determine the City’s operational needs in the current business environment and to give the Contracted Taxicab Companies time to ramp up operations. Even without such a waiver, however, those three taxicab operators would be able to operate in the City, but not on-demand at the Airport, as ground transportation for hire companies, assuming they continued to meet the City’s requirements for such operations.

Providing transportation choices is a priority for Salt Lake City. The ground transportation services provided by a majority of transportation for hire companies include pre-arranged cars, vans, courtesy vehicles, hotel vehicles, limousines, and busses. Additionally, traditional taxicab service is required to provide 24-hour, nondiscriminatory, accessible, metered service with regulated rates. TNCs provide another choice to the public that makes car travel conveniently available to those who need it, while reducing the number of cars on the roads. TNCs provide an option to driving a personal automobile, which is an objective supported by several Plans and policies of the City, including the Transportation Master Plan and the City Council’s Philosophy Statement on Transportation.

The explosive global growth of TNCs, which has reached hundreds of cities around the world, has caused ground transportation regulators to rethink their ground transportation policies in an effort to provide for these new transportation services, while honoring existing business agreements, regulations, and practices. Ground transportation regulatory schemes vary widely among jurisdictions. For example, in some locales taxicabs are governed by a separate regulatory body, such as a public service commission, from other ground transportation for hire services. Logistical and operational needs, such as staging of vehicles, numbers of providers, and connections to public transportation and airports, depend on the size and configuration of the local area and airport, as well as the ground transportation needs of the population. Jurisdictions also vary in their treatment of violations as civil or criminal, and whether they must obtain a cease and desist order before they can impose fines or other sanctions.

The ground transportation regulatory scheme in Salt Lake City is relatively straightforward. Except for certain City ordinances that impose some obligations on and grant some exclusive privileges to on-demand taxicab providers, most City ground transportation ordinances apply equally to all providers of ground transportation for hire that operate in the City. For example, violators are subject to civil, not criminal, penalties; fines can be imposed directly, based on City ordinances, and do not require a court order; all ground transportation companies must comply with the same requirements regarding passenger safety, service standards, and insurance coverage. With a few modifications, current City ordinances will be sufficient to address the City’s desire to ensure the safety of the public and the operational and logistical needs of the City, the needs of the TNCs, taxicabs, and other ground transportation providers, while providing consumer choice in this evolving market.

Under Salt Lake City's current regulatory structure, individual Lyft and Uber drivers are held to the same City standards as all ground transportation providers. However, a majority, if not all, TNC drivers are not registered or licensed by the City to provide transportation for hire in the City. Although TNC drivers can, if they so choose, comply with most City ground transportation requirements, including vehicle cleanliness and service standards, driver background checks, insurance, and other standards listed in Chapters 5.71, 5.72, and 16.60 of SLC City Code, TNC companies assert they cannot comply with the current 30 minute prearrangement requirement in City ordinance. That requirement presents an irreconcilable conflict with their business model, which requires a rapid response to internet application-based ride requests. Thus, TNC drivers currently operate in violation of certain City ground transportation requirements, and violators are being cited for such violations.

Certain amendments to the City's ground transportation ordinances are necessary to create a regulatory environment that meets the various needs of the City, supports ground transportation providers, and protects the public, including the following:

1. Thirty minute limitation and $30 minimum charge. Current restrictions prohibiting non-taxicab operators from providing on-demand service in the City should be eliminated, except at the Airport. The TNCs have indicated they cannot operate according to their business model unless they are able to pick up customers on-demand and without a minimum charge (or with a very nominal minimum charge). The 30 minute pre-arrangement requirement restricts consumer choice to only taxicabs for most on-demand service. Similarly, the $30 minimum charge for limousines also limits consumer choice.

However, this transmittal recommends that the Council continue to mandate the prearrangement and minimum charge requirements for picking up passengers at the Salt Lake City International Airport. By doing so, the City reserves the privilege of on-demand service for the contracted taxicab companies. Also, the Airport has limited space for taxis and others to dwell, so limiting on-demand at the Airport to the Contracted Taxicab Companies helps to manage the space constraints.

2. Minimum number of taxicabs. This transmittal recommends the elimination of the requirement in City ordinance that sets the minimum number of on-demand taxicabs in the City. The City needs the flexibility to adjust fleet size to changing market conditions.

3. Restrictions on number of taxicab companies. This transmittal recommends the elimination of the requirement in City ordinance that the City select in a competitive process between 2 and 4 companies to provide on-demand taxicab service in the City. The restriction requiring 2-4 companies was incorporated into the City's ordinances over four years ago to allow for the possibility that all three taxicab companies holding certificates of public convenience and necessity at that time would have the possibility of being successful respondents in the competitive public selection process. However, those certificates of public convenience and necessity expired on their own terms on November 28, 2011, and the Contracted Taxicab Companies were selected to provide on-demand taxicab service in the City. Such limits on the number of providers are no longer necessary and it is in the best interest of the City to have the flexibility going forward to be able to award on-demand taxicab contracts to the appropriate number of companies the market can support.

4. Emergency Powers. The department director appointed by the Mayor to administer and enforce the City's ground transportation ordinances currently is authorized, in emergency and certain other situations, to waive temporarily the requirement that only on-demand taxicab providers with a department contract to provide on-demand services in the City and at the Airport. In the current, rapidly changing ground transportation market, it would be in the City's best interest to allow the department director to waive or impose restrictions in Chapters 5.71, 5.72, and 16.60 on a temporary basis, with the approval of the Mayor and upon notice to the City Council, in the event of congestion and other operational problems, security concerns, or emergency conditions. Such emergency power will enable the City to respond quickly and allow time for the Council to enact the appropriate ordinance amendments after the applicable public process.

5. Miscellaneous. Other changes have been made throughout the ordinances that are necessary or recommended to correspond with and effectuate the changes discussed above. Additionally, a few clean-up changes are included, as well as changes that reflect more modern terminology or remove unnecessary language because of changes in state law.

PUBLIC PROCESS:

City representatives have met with a representative of Uber about Uber's concerns related to operating in Salt Lake City, and Airport management and staff have discussed the proposed changes to the ordinance with the Contracted Taxicab Companies. The Salt Lake City Business Advisory Board has discussed the proposal as well and is in the process of providing feedback.
